Rian Thai Kruu Cherry: Thai Casual Sentences

Thai is a language that uses different words for formal and informal situations. The words we use can also show the relationship between people.

Today I will teach you how to make a sentence sound more casual, like a native speaker would say it. All of the sentences we learn today can be used with family and friends. Sound good? Ok, let's begin!

1) I don't want to bother you.

To bother

Formal: รบกวน /róp guan/

Informal: กวน /guan/

So to make it more casual, you can say "ฉันไม่อยากกวนคุณ" /chăn mâi yàak guan kun/ instead "ฉันไม่อยากรบกวนคุณ" /chăn mâi yàak róp guan kun/. Anyway, if you want someone to do something for you and you want to start the sentence with "I don't want to bother you, but..", you can use the phrase โทษนะ /tôht ná/, which is from ขอโทษนะ /kŏr tôht ná/.

Sorry (excuse me)

Formal: ขอโทษนะ /kŏr tôht ná/

Informal: โทษนะ /tôht ná/

*to say นะ /ná/ in this phrase, makes it sound more natural, in my opinion.

Example:

Sorry to interrupt, but this is very important. โทษนะ แต่(เรื่อง)นี้สำคัญมาก tôht ná · dtàe (rêuang) née săm-kan mâak

Sorry to interrupt, but there's someone to see you. โทษนะ แต่มีคนรอพบคุณอยู่ tôht ná · dtàe mee kon ror póp kun yòo

I don't want to bother you, but can you open the window. โทษนะ ช่วยเปิดหน้าต่างให้หน่อยได้ไหม tôht ná · chûay bpèrt nâa dtàang hâi nòi dâai măi

I don't want to bother you, but can you help me with one thing. โทษนะ คุณช่วยอะไรผมสักอย่างได้ไหม tôht ná · kun chûay à-rai pŏm sàk yàang dâai măi

Sorry if I come across as rude, but I'm a little confused. โทษนะ แต่ฉันงงนิดหน่อยว่า... tôht ná · dtàe chăn ngong nít nòi wâa ...

2) No offense

You can start the sentences with "ไม่ได้ว่านะ" /mâi dâai wâa ná/ "no offense", when giving negative comments such as, "are you getting fat?!?" (I know it's weird, but it is okay in Thailand).

Example:

No offense, but did you get fat? ไม่ได้ว่านะ แต่แกอ้วนขึ้นเปล่าเนี่ย mâi dâai wâa ná · dtàe gae ûan kêun bplào nîa

No offense, but your boyfriend is ugly. ไม่ได้ว่านะ แต่แฟนแกขึ้เหร่อ่ะ mâi dâai wâa ná · dtàe faen gae kêe-rày à

3) Can I ask you...?

To ask about personal information or sensitive details, you can start with a casual sentence "ถามอะไรหน่อย" /tăam à-rai nòi/.

Example:

Can I ask you something personal? ถามอะไรหน่อย / ฉันถามอะไรหน่อย tăam à-rai nòi / chăn tăam à-rai nòi

The word "personal" is "เรื่องส่วนตัว" /rêuang sùan dtua/.

You don't need to say "เรื่องส่วนตัว" /rêuang sùan dtua/ before asking the question like "ฉันขอถามเรื่องส่วนตัวหน่อย" /chăn kŏr tăam rêuang sùan dtua nòi/. If someone starts asking me questions with sentences like this, I will be very tense and won't want to answer.

Moreover, casual sentences depend on your voice tone. I always use a voice like I am kidding or even ask with a whisper sound sometimes.

I hope all of these tips are useful for you.

One more thing I almost forgot to tell you. The secret of a casual sentence is a smile on your face. Don't forget to SMILE!
